DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear what “the housing secures a support placed by a side surface of the serrate blade to render impossible contact between a portion of the serrate blade placed by the support” encompasses. In the specification said that the hook support 15 is secured to the cover portion 14 as to face both side of the blade and it is adjustable to avoid a blade holder 1 contacts the workpiece (see page 4, lines 10-18).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Farmerie (5,212,887) in view of Schmitz (5,832,611).

Farmerie discloses (Fig. 1-5) the invention including:

Art Unit: 3724

- Claim 1; a serrate blade 66, a blade holder 64, a plunger 62, an engagement piece 72, an engagement long hole 76, an air motor (see col. 2, lines 10, where the invention can be operated with other types motor such as a pneumatic motor), a crack shaft 54 and a motor housing 14.
- Claim 3; a support 94.

Regarding claims 1 and 2, Farmerie does not show a housing with a slit and a positional angle. However, Schmitz teaches the use of a housing 344 having a slit (see Fig. 15 and 17, where the wing nut is located) and a positional angle (see col. 8, lines 49-54, where the movable portion 330 is free for rotational adjustment) for the purpose of adjusting the angle of reciprocation relative to the motor housing. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Farmerie's device by providing the housing with the slit and the positional angle as taught by Schmitz in order to obtain a device that adjusts the angle of reciprocation relative to the motor housing for versatility. Also, Schmitz show the motor housing 300 coupled to the side opening 354 (see Fig. 16) and the plunger 332 arranged inside the housing 344 (see Fig. 17).

Conclusion

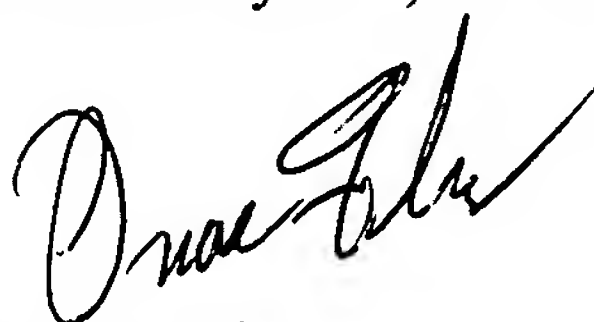

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Stryker, Cecere and Moores are cited to show related device.
